PRODUCT DESCRIPTION

1925 BSA V-Twin 1000cc

The first motorcycles for which BSA supplied the cycle parts were powered by proprietary engines, Minerva being a well-known example.

It was not till the end of 1910 that BSA built a motorcycles of their own design and manufacture. The model on offer here is a 1000cc V-twin sidevalve machine with hand-operated 3 speed gear and chain drive.

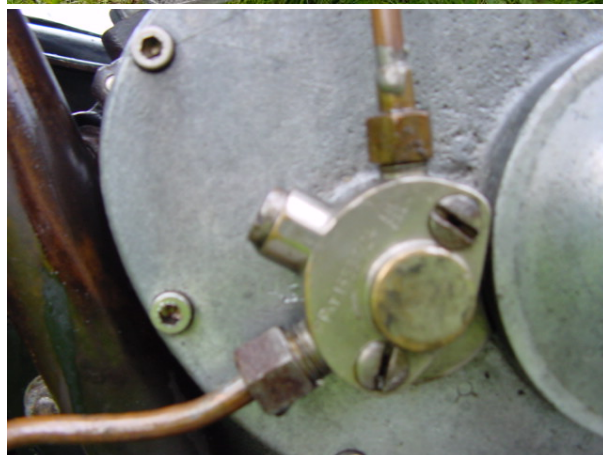

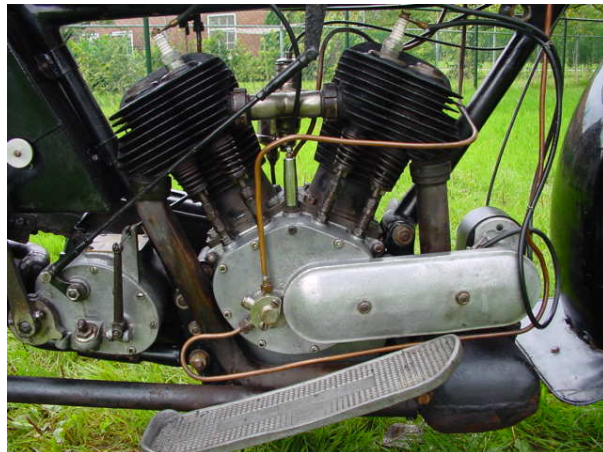

This sturdy machine with its big engine is an impressive appearance.

The machine runs well, but could do with some cosmetic attention.

BSA V-twins are much sought after.
