performed splendidly.

By 1920, the standard 2 $\frac{3}{4}$ model W had a three speed countershaft gearbox with kick-starter, a clutch and footboards.

The WD had the basic "veteran" specification of two speed gearbox and did not have the luxury of a clutch.

Lubrication is by means of hand pump with drip feed regulator.

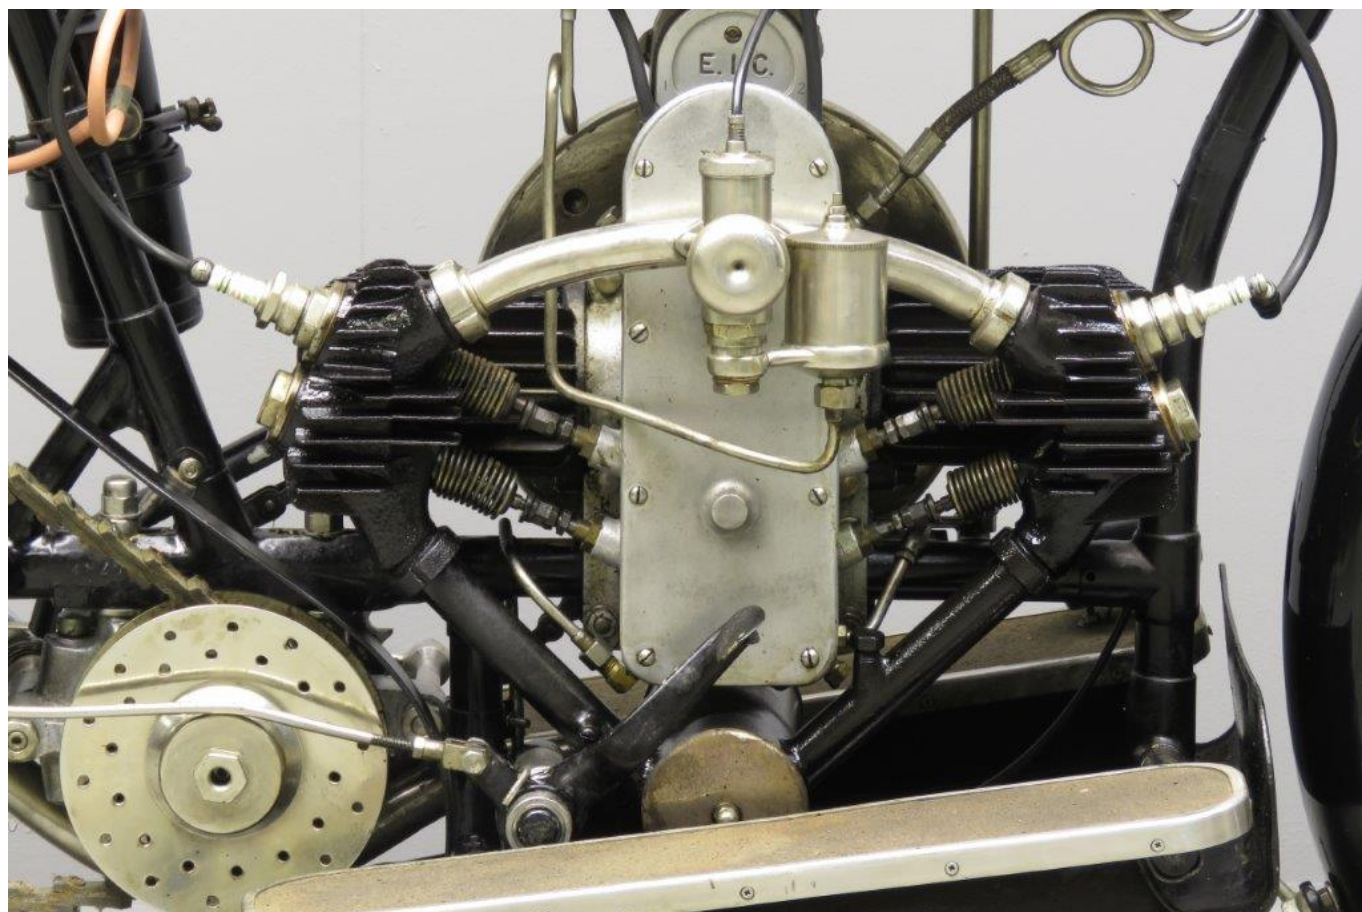

The petrol tank holds 5 $\frac{1}{2}$ litres, the oil compartment 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ litres.

Petrol consumption is a decent 1:30. This well-sorted older restoration is fitted with foot-operated claxon, Lucas "King of the Road" 462 front lamp and "Luxor" rear lamp.
